BATTLER WILL TRY ONCE MORE

Oscar Matthew Battling Nelson Declares He Will Force Wolgast to Fight Him.

PAYS GREAT TRIBUTE TO TO DYING PUGILIST

Declares Joe Gans Was a Wonderful Fighter and a Perfect Gentleman.

Fresh from his Arizonn ranch, confiden as ever in his ability as a fighter, and till eager for the fray, Battling Nelson, former champion lightweight of the world, eached Salt Lake, Friday night, on his to the Vellowstone park for a long The Battler is attired in his outing khaki and has a coat of tan that any teur sportsman would be proud of He looks the picture of health and says is in the picture of health and says is in the best condition of his life. In his own picturesque way the Dane its of his outing at his ranch and of prospective sport in the Yellowstone, en. and this with all his old-time concence. Mr. Wolgast needs look to his win, for the rejuvenated Mr. Nelson surely "coming back."

Forget It!

Now, on off for the Vellowstone and going to stay there just as long as fun and the bank roll hold out. If fun lasts longer than the bank roll. I'll go and get mother bank roll go back to the Yellowstone.

shape of my life.

"When I come down from the Yellowstone this fall I will be ready for the liampion. I am going to be world's chambion before the winter is over, mark my word. I know that Wolgast doesn't want to light me, but I am going to force lift into it. If he refuses to take me on this fall I will fight any other good mun that the public selects. And I will keep lighting until Wolgast will have to fight me or quit. Don't worry about me. I am young yet, and I am going to be champion of the world again before I retire.

Sympathy for Gans.

Sympathy for Gans.

The Battler is greatly concerned over the condition of Joe Gans, his old-fine trial. He wired Gans a characteristic message last night, congratulating the segre on the game fight be was putting up and told him to win out.

"Gans is one of the greatest fighters be world has ever known. He was a chire black man, a worthy rival and a erfect gentleman. I certainly hope that e fools them all and lives in spite of dust the doctors say Gans always was gamester and his last fight is certainly towing his best one."

Nelson does not think that the beatings revived by the negro in the prize ring intributed to his ill health. He said at just prior to the Nelson-Wolgast the Gans was in prime condition and as contemplating re-entering the ring, bout this time he contracted cold in we York and did not take care of it time. Abdul, the Turk, Battling Nelson's trainer and constant companion, is with him on his trip. The Turk re-echoes the confidence of the Dane and is certain that the next lightweight champion of the world will be Oscar Matthew Battling Nelson of Hegewisch.
